Geneva Village, the ailing age-restricted apartment complex along Prince Street near Downtown Littleton, will be redeveloped in coming years into a greater supply of up-to-date affordable housing. The City of Littleton is committed to relocation assistance for the remaining residents of Geneva Village.

Built in 1964 as low-cost housing for retired members of the International Geneva Association, the 28-unit complex came under City of Littleton ownership in 1975 as part of the land purchase for construction of the Littleton Center, Littleton’s city hall. Geneva Village currently has 11 leased units.

The aging facility faces a variety of significant mechanical and other major repair needs, most of which require asbestos mitigation. Following an extensive facility assessment, city staff presented city council with several options for the facility’s future, including rehabilitation estimated at $5 million, or redeveloping the site to add more new affordable housing units.

In September, city council decided to redevelop the site, with an anticipated three- to five-year timeline. The redevelopment will be guided by community outreach and expertise in affordable housing, mobility, and economic development. Plans will also be guided by the vision outlined in the forthcoming Project Downtown planning effort, and likely in partnership with the Littleton Downtown Development Authority.

The redevelopment process will include discussions about how to best utilize the site. The parcels could be pulled into a land trust to preserve affordability and could include a mix of for-sale and rental units.

The City of Littleton has contracted with housing specialists at B-Konnected to assist residents in the process of finding new homes. Over the summer, residents participated in group sessions and one-on-one discussions with B-Konnected, providing vital insights into tenants’ personal experiences, well-being, and available resources. City council and staff are committed to addressing residents’ needs. Through B-Konnected, the city is providing residents with housing navigation, day-to-day support, relocation planning, and moving assistance. Where possible, tenants who would like to stay in Littleton are receiving assistance to do so.

City staff will present early next steps for Geneva Village at an upcoming city council study session. For more information, contact Assistant City Manager Kathleen Osher at kosher@littletongov.org.
Calendars, newsletters, and websites are ways to communicate the ongoing activities and plans for Downtown Littleton. The Littleton Downtown Development Authority (LDDA) has launched a new website and newsletter aimed at keeping residents and businesses informed on its efforts to improve Downtown Littleton.

The LDDA launched the new website in downtown looking at elements like mobility, access, safety, sustainability, and resiliency. This site is the central hub for sharing important information, announcements, while the newsletter offers updates on LDDA activities. Users can also sign up for the LDDA's e-newsletter.

Members of Littleton's Fine Arts Board selected 13 winners whose photographs will grace the 2024 Littleton Calendar and Annual Report. The contest received 161 photographs from 62 photographers who sought to capture Littleton's beauty. Winners are awarded $25. Calendars are available at no cost at the Littleton Center, Littleton Museum, Bemis Library, and other locations in mid-December. Thanks to everyone who submitted photographs!

Littleton Downtown Development Authority Launches Website, Newsletter

The Littleton Downtown Development Authority (LDDA) has launched a new website and newsletter aimed at keeping residents and businesses informed on its efforts to improve Downtown Littleton.

LDDA.org includes a business directory of downtown shops, restaurants, offices, and services. The calendar page covers both LDDA events and user-submitted events, while the news page offers updates on LDDA activities. Users can also sign up for an e-newsletter.

“We are excited to unveil our new website that captures the vibrancy of Downtown Littleton,” said Jenny Starkey, the LDDA’s executive director. “From its modern design to its mobile responsiveness, this site is our central hub for sharing important information, announcements, and news with the Littleton community and beyond.”

The LDDA works to boost the economic vitality of Downtown Littleton through collaborative efforts. The agency is guided by a Plan of Development focused on building a business-friendly and vibrant community, supporting businesses, and keeping everyone informed and engaged district programs.

Project Downtown Looks to Next Steps

City planners are making strides with Project Downtown, an ongoing effort to guide the future of Downtown Littleton. More than 500 residents responded to the project’s first survey.

The survey will culminate in a long-term strategic plan to guide infrastructure improvements in downtown looking at elements like mobility, access, safety, sustainability, and resiliency. New approaches to everything from parking to sidewalks to traffic control to benches and trees are on the table, all guided by the goal of making downtown a more enticing place to live, visit, shop, dine, or grow a business.

The project team will develop three concept alternatives based on the first community survey, which will be presented at a series of in-person and virtual outreach events in early 2024. For more information, including an email update list and a “story map” with major project milestones, search “Project Downtown” at LittletonCO.gov.

Tri-Cities Homelessness Initiative Changing Lives

The Tri-Cities Homelessness Initiative, a collaborative effort between Littleton, Englewood, and Sheridan to address homelessness, continues to make strides towards helping neighbors—both housed and unhoused.

Dozens of community members gathered at the Littleton Center in July for a forum on strategies to address homelessness. The meeting, which included downtown business owners, local service providers, city staff, and more, discussed efforts to keep Downtown Littleton a vibrant and welcoming place for all.

Facilitators from the Iliff School of Theology conducted surveys and one-on-one interviews with downtown stakeholders to understand the impacts of homelessness. A report based on the interviews and surveys identified areas for improvement, including better communication and ongoing evaluation of progress. The report is available by searching “Downtown Community Forum: Homelessness” at LittletonCO.gov.

City of Littleton agencies are taking steps to compassionately address homelessness, beginning later this year. Littleton Police foot patrols downtown, drawing positive feedback from businesses, residents, and visitors.

AllHealth Network’s Mobile Response Unit expanded its territory to Littleton this year. The van is staffed by a nurse practitioner and mental health clinician, capable of providing a treatment-based, trauma-informed response to calls for service involving mental health concerns. The service joins the Littleton Police Department’s full-time co-responder service provided by AllHealth’s PATH Outreach Team, which provides mental and behavioral health care and ongoing case management.

If residents encounter someone in need and the situation is non-threatening, they are encouraged to call Littleton Police’s non-emergency line at 303-794-1551. Illegal habitation should be reported via the SeeClickFix service—search ‘SeeClickFix’ at LittletonCO.gov. Dangerous or threatening situations should be reported by calling 911.

As 2024 dawns, the Tri-Cities Homelessness Initiative is poised to implement major elements of its Action Plan.

East Community Center Off to Strong Start

The transformation of the former East Elementary School into a community center is off to a strong start, with Littleton Public Schools welcoming numerous community-focused tenants to the building at Fairfield Street and Bannock Street.

In 2021, the Littleton Public Schools Board of Education decided to merge East Elementary and Ralph Moody Elementary onto a separate campus at the former Moody site now called Little Raven Elementary. East Elementary School closed in May 2023. A public outreach effort identified a variety of potential uses for the space:

• After school and youth programs
• Childcare
• Community market (food bank)
• Community space and garden
• Sports and recreation
• Wellness (mental and physical health)

The mix of new tenants reflects several of these goals:
• North Littleton Promise, which assists children from immigrant families.
• St. Andrew Community Market operates a free food market each Thursday from 10 a.m. to noon and from 5 to 7 p.m. The group also hosted a school supply drive in August.
• Break Bread offers free-to-go meals every third Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. from a pop-up food tent.
• All Health Network provides a therapist who serves Littleton Public Schools staff.
• Littleton Optimist Club weekly meetings.

Future potential tenants or guests include the Littleton Police Department, Rooted 303, Graceful Café, and the YMCA.

The center’s coordinator is Joe Cardenas who has extensive experience in family services and mental health, most recently at the Tennyson Center for Children.

While the center will have a dedicated website launching soon, residents can find more information by searching “East Community Center” at LittletonPublicSchools.net.
Volunteer for City Boards, Authorities, Commissions

Want to play a greater role in city decision-making? The Littleton City Council invites residents to apply for vacancies on the city’s authorities, boards, and commissions. Service on a city board helps ensure that city council hears the voices of many citizens as it considers future policies and programs.

There are 14 volunteer citizen boards, which generally meet monthly. Citizen boards make decisions on topics ranging from zoning and land use to public art and sustainability. Applications are open in December and close January 31. Applicant interviews will be scheduled in February. Terms will begin April 1, 2024.

To learn more or to apply, search “Authorities, Boards, Commissions” at LittletonCO.gov.

Co-Responder Program Bolstered by Opioid Settlement Funds

The city will use its first round of opioid lawsuit settlement funds to bolster its co-responder program, giving mental health care providers more resources to continue assisting people battling mental illness or addiction.

Littleton stands to receive more than $1.2 million over 18 years as its share of a nationwide settlement against drug manufacturers found liable for worsening the opioid crisis. The funds must be used for addiction prevention, drug treatment, recovery, criminal justice, or harm reduction.

Littleton has so far received just over $77,000 of its total share. The initial allocation of $40,000 toward the co-responder program will help pay for mental health care providers who accompany Littleton Police Officers on calls involving people in crisis. Future allocations will be determined by city council.

Join Discussion on Civility at Documentary Screening

Join Littleton City Council Member Gretchen Rydin for a screening of The Abortion Talks, a documentary about leaders in the pro-choice and pro-life movements bridging the chasm of ideology to find common ground to prevent violence and promote civility.

Following the screening, Rydin will host an interactive workshop on how to talk about difficult and contentious issues with loved ones, colleagues, and neighbors.

• When: 2 to 4:15 p.m., Saturday, January 13
• Where: Bemis Public Library, 6014 South Datura Street

To RSVP, email grydin@littletongov.org or call 720-507-5401.

New Municipal Court Hours Will Save Time and Emissions

Beginning January 2, 2024, the Littleton Municipal Court building will be open to the public Monday through Thursday and will be closed on Fridays. Staff will continue to work remotely on Fridays. The change will save almost $32,000 per year in security costs, remove approximately 3,250 pounds of carbon emissions from the air, reduce facility cleaning costs, and promote enhanced employee retention by promoting work-life balance.

“...we are looking forward to piloting this program in support of city council’s Environmental Stewardship goal.” - Court Administrator Danielle Trujillo

Littleton Completes First Water Resources Plan

City of Littleton engineers presented Littleton’s first-ever Integrated Water Resources Plan this fall, compiling a groundbreaking assessment of the city’s water rights portfolio. The city has also undertaken an irrigation modernization plan that focuses on managing the water uses at city facilities and greatly enhancing resource conservation.

The city is also exploring supplemental projects with Denver Water and other agencies to provide new programs to support citizen efforts to reduce water use, complete turf conversions, and assist community members in managing their water use. These programs are in development and should come to fruition over the next two years.

For more information, search “Integrated Water Resources Plan” at LittletonCO.gov.

Littleton Community Retreat, Littleton Leadership Academy Return in 2024

Both the Littleton Community Retreat and the Littleton Leadership Academy will return in 2024, building on a nearly 50-year legacy of inspiring bold new ideas and local leadership.

Founded in 1975, the Littleton Community Retreat is a two-day program focusing on a matter of importance to the community. Previous retreats resulted in big ideas for Littleton, including Town Hall Arts Center, the Littleton Immigrant Resource Center, and Historic Littleton Inc.

Following a hiatus during the pandemic, the Littleton Community Retreat will return in September 2024, with a focus on sustainability. For more information, visit LittletonCommunityRetreat.org.

The Littleton Leadership Academy is another big idea born from the Littleton Community Retreat. Operated independently from 2017 to 2019, the 10-month civic affairs boot camp counted numerous local leaders among its alumni, including Littleton Mayor Kyle Schlachter. The once-a-month sessions allow attendees to engage with civic leaders, organizations, and socioeconomic issues affecting the city.

Halted during the pandemic, Arapahoe Community College revived the program and will kick off the 2024 session in January. Applications are due by December 15 and can be found by searching “Littleton Leadership Academy” at Arapahoe.edu.

A New Vision for Powers Park

Northeast Littleton’s Powers Park could see big upgrades in coming years, as the South Metro Land Conservancy spearheads an effort to overhaul the neighborhood park into a true gem. The park at Huron Street and Powers Avenue is built around a floodwater retention pond, and lacks some of the grander amenities of other Littleton parks. After an intensive process of community outreach and landscape design, the Conservancy is working with South Suburban Parks and Recreation, the City of Littleton, and other local agencies to bring the vision to fruition. Plans call for terraced areas for picnicking and outdoor play, natural areas to connect visitors with nature, and an overhauled playground. For more information, visit SMLCland.

Littleton Development Updates

Littleton’s community development specialists are working with applicants on more than 60 active development projects. Here are some highlights.

700 West Mineral Avenue (Lumen property): Republic Investment Group and Embrey are planning a total redevelopment of the 60+ acre site, with proposals for 370 apartment homes and significant retail space. Tentatively scheduled to go before city council December 19.

Columbine Square/O’Toole’s master development plans: Quarrata and James Properties are planning 180 age-restricted apartments and 363 unrestricted apartments on the 20-acre properties. The age-restricted master development plan is scheduled for planning commission consideration in December.

Aspen Grove site plan: in its first step to add a residential component to the Aspen Grove mall, Gerrity Group has a 376-unit mixed-use building under review with a significant retail component on the ground floor. The proposed building includes a parking garage and is located at the south end of Aspen Grove near the Mineral Avenue light rail station.

Powers Place site plan: RPM Living has a site plan under review for 325 apartments (including 17 affordable units under the Inclusory Housing Ordinance) south of the Norgren property between Delaware and Bannock on West Powers Avenue.

AMLI Littleton Village administrative plan: after having its master development plan approved, AMLI is moving forward with plans to develop a 310-unit mixed-use building on the north side of Village Park Drive between Broadway and Sherman Avenue. In Littleton Village, staff is also processing site plans for entertainment venue No. 38 and an El Pollo Loco restaurant.

Denver Water Rates Increasing

Denver Water announced an increase in water rates in October aimed at paying for repair, maintenance, and upgrades to the water delivery system. The new rates take effect January 1. Typical single-family residential customers will see an average increase from $1.60 to $2.30 per month.

“Denver Water is at a pivoting point,” said CEO Alan Salazar. “These are historic times and we’ll be affected, just as the communities we serve will be affected, by climate change, population growth, variability in the economy, inflation, and supply chains. Water is a crucial resource that supports all of us. You can’t have civilization without it. Continuing to maintain and invest in the system that supports our water supply will ensure we — Denver Water as well as our customers — are ready for what lies ahead, while keeping rates as low as good service will allow.”

Denver Water expects to invest $1.9 billion over the next decade in projects that will maintain, repair, protect, and upgrade the system and make it more resilient and flexible in the future.

Nonprofits, Arts Programs, Youth Activities Get Boost From City Grants

Numerous nonprofits and community organizations will get a boost from City of Littleton grant programs, after city council named dozens of grant recipients in October. Stadium District Grants are one-time funding from Littleton’s inclusion in the Metropol-itan Football Stadium District, the entity that owns Empower Field at Mile High, due to the recent sale of the Denver Broncos. Funding must be used for youth programs. City council awarded more than $750,000 from this fund, with $200,000 going toward the Littleton Public Schools East Community Center. Other recipients included the YMCA, Littleton Li-ons Baseball, Samba Colorado, and North Littleton Promise.

Quarterra and James Proper-columbia Square/O’Toole’s master development plans:

City planners are conducting the last round of public engagement for the Broadway Corridor Study that will establish a cohesive vision for the corridor’s future between I-25 and Highlands Ranch Parkway. In December, residents can learn more about the proposed improvements and conceptual designs and provide their feedback online or at a pop-up event. For details, search “Broadway Corridor Study” at LittletonCO.gov.

Denver Committed to Bicyclist, Pedestrian Safety

The City of Littleton is committed to cyclist and pedestrian safety. In light of community concerns following the tragic death of a bicyclist hit by a vehicle near Euclid Middle School in October, the Littleton City Council is eager to work with the community to ensure strong progress is being made on the 2019 Transportation Master Plan.

The plan includes 177 bicycle and pedestrian-related capital projects, 34 of which are funded and at some stage of planning, design, or construction. City council will work with staff to review the plan’s progress, and recommend a process for increased community engagement around future projects.

Pedestrian safety is one of the city’s top priorities, especially near schools. The city is partnering with Littleton Public Schools on a Safe Routes to School grants, mapping and signing designated bicycle and pedestrian routes to and around schools. A Traffic Safety Team was created in 2018 which includes police, transportation, and city manager’s office staff who specifically respond to safety and accident issues. Since adoption of the Transportation Master Plan in 2019, several million dollars have been spent on pedestrian and bicycle infrastructure.

The Neighborhood Traffic Calming Program launched in September 2023 provides a streamlined and transparent way for citizens to report neighborhood traffic safety concerns and work with staff to address these concerns. For more information, search “Neighborhood Traffic Calming Program” at LittletonCO.gov. Residents can also report non-emergency concerns through the SeeClickFix app 24 hours a day, 7 days a week at LittletonCo.gov/SeeClickFix.

Stay tuned for information about a pedestrian/bicycle community forum after the first of the year.

SpaceX Rocket Lands in Littleton

Littleton is now home to an out-of-this-world installation, after DISH Network installed a SpaceX Falcon 9 rocket booster straddling the Littles Creek Trail beside its build- ing at Bowles Avenue and Santa Fe Drive. Costs of the $2.4 million project were covered by the Telluray Foundation, while DISH will be responsible for ongoing maintenance. Visitors can check out the rocket on foot or bicycle by accessing the Mary Carter Greenway by the Telluray Foundation, while DISH will be responsible for ongoing maintenance. Local Partnership Grants support organizations that serve Littleton residents. City council awarded more than $70,000 from this fund, including grants to ALHEalth Network, Break Bread, Nourish Meals on Wheels, Cycling Without Age, the Humane Society of the South Platte Valley, and DIRT Coffee. A 50% tax on lodging approved by voters in 2022 created a new pool of grant funds, earmarked to support arts and culture, tourism, and visitor promotion in Littleton. Nearly $250,000 was awarded from the fund, including grants to the Littleton Learning Lab, Tell Me More Tours, the Arapahoe Philharmonic, Littleton Youth Ballet, Western Welcome Week, and the Littleton Fine Arts Guild.

Littleton Celebrates Grant Funding at Arapahoe County Shareback Awards

The City of Littleton joined local municipalities September 26 to celebrate the distribution of nearly $25 million to cities, towns, and partner agencies as part of Arapahoe County's Open Spaces Shareback and Grant Awards Ceremony. Fifty percent of the annual Open Space Sales and Use Tax revenue is distributed directly back to participating cities and towns across Arapahoe County through the Shareback program. Funds are allocated according to population and contribute to the life and health of Arapahoe County residents via trail, playground, and park improvement projects. Littleton received almost $1.6 million for parks and open space. Among the grants Littleton received from the program in 2023:

- $562,500 to pave and widen a portion of the Mineral Trail to improve conditions for pedestrians and cyclists.
- $135,000 to support a feasibility study for a potential underpass of the High Line Canal Trail at Mineral Avenue.
- $80,000 to support a master plan for Kretting and Gallup Parks.

Public Safety, Customer Service Needs Addressed in 2024 Budget

The City of Littleton's 2024 budget features a strong emphasis on public safety, following resident feedback in recent community surveys. The budget for the coming year includes funding for an additional seven police officers, two dispatchers, a detective, expansion of the mental health co-responder program, and additional upgrades to the police fleet and radio equipment. The budget also provides funding for additional positions to meet resident needs citywide, including a public works engineer, forestry technician, budget manager, and a records management technician. Thanks to funding from a lodgers tax approved by voters in 2022, the Littleton Museum and Bemis Public Library will receive additional staff including a public art administrator and a dedicated staff member for the Bookmobile.

Big Things: Traffic Technology Gets Upgrades

Thanks to voter approval of Ballot Question 3A in 2021, the City of Littleton is working on its biggest slate of infrastructure upgrades in recent memory. Although peak construction season has come to a close, Littleton’s public works department has completed significant upgrades that will improve the operation of traffic signals and provide more reliable communication between traffic signal systems.

Broadway fiber optics

This $1.1 million project installed fiber optic cable to connect eight traffic signal systems on Broadway between Arapahoe Road and Powers Avenue, aimed at easing congestion along the corridor. In addition, this project begins the backbone of a future regional system envisioned to connect traffic communications for Littleton, Englewood, Centennial, Greenwood Village, Arapahoe County, and other partner agencies. A similar project on Broadway from Arapahoe Road to County Line Road is planned for 2026.

Traffic signal replacement

Informed by a 2019 assessment, the city has replaced deficient traffic signal poles and equipment at eight major intersections. Some intersections saw replacement of all four poles, while others only needed one or two replaced. This project cost $2.8 million. The list of intersections is below:

- S. Broadway and Powers Avenue
- S. Broadway and Orchard Road
- S. Broadway and Broadway Estates
- S. Broadway and Easter Avenue
- Bowles Ave. and Coventry Lane
- Bowles Ave. and Middlefield Road
- Mineral Ave. and Southpark Terrace
- Mineral Ave. and Pennsylvania Street

Bemis Public Library Welcomes Guest Artist Ellen Moershel

Bemis Public Library is pleased to welcome this year's guest artist, in partnership with the Boulder Museum of Contemporary Art (BMoCA).

Ellen Moershel studied fine art at the University of Oklahoma and currently lives in Denver. Her work is inspired by plants and gardens. The exhibition will include paintings created specifically for Bemis Library, interactive programs with the artist, and opportunities to create and participate in the process. The program will run from November through March.

Bemis Library has been partnering with BMoCA since 2019 as part of the library's ongoing commitment to foster a vibrant, collaborative, and creative Littleton where arts and culture are defining features of the community's identity and unique character.

"Curiosity is probably the biggest force behind why I make paintings. The avoidance of rules or guidelines when it comes to making my artwork, allows me to prioritize experimentation and embrace accidents. I can create imagery that goes beyond what I can see in my mind. Inspired by observing houseplants and gardens, watching how plants grow in seemingly erratic directions informs my practice, patterns and color palettes.*

COMMUNITY BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Cencalli Taqueria

Downtown Littleton's spiciest new addition is Cencalli Taqueria, offering a mouth-watering menu including quesabirria tacos, enchiladas, tortas, quesadillas, fajitas, nachos, and more. Owners Zoe Romero and Andres Veralonzo also operate Colonos's Pizza & Pasta in Centennial but felt inspired to bring authentic Mexican food to Littleton. Cencalli, a Nahua word meaning family, is fitting, as the couple hopes to teach their three children life skills through the restaurant. Cencalli plans to host fundraiser nights for local schools and nonprofits, while the walls will be adorned with rotating art by local artists. Cencalli Taqueria is at 2389 Main Street. For more information, visit CencalliTaqueria.com, or call 303-353-8290.

The Guild

If working from home means too much time looking at the same four walls, check out The Guild, a new coworking space in south Littleton. The Guild offers dedicated or a la carte workspaces, from desks to private offices, starting at $100 per month. The location is the second for co-owners Laura and Dudley Callison, who also run another Guild coworking space in Englewood. The Guild draws entrepreneurs, freelancers, and other work-from-home professionals who may not have space for an office at home or are looking to ease loneliness. The Guild also helps foster connection and collaboration across industries, and offers a lower-cost, turn-key way for growing companies to have their own office space without the hassle of leases and utility payments. Happy hours, lunch-and-learns, "wine-down Wednesdays," and a fully-stocked kitchen create a fun and supportive environment. The Guild is located at 7851 South Elati Street, Suite #100. For more information, visit WorkingAloneSucks.com or call 303-997-0322.

Lube & Latte

It's a coffee shop! It's an auto repair shop! It's Lube & Latte, now open on South Windermere Street. Owner Dustin Olde said he wanted to elevate auto repair beyond "dirty waiting rooms, scalded cheap coffee, and grungy restrooms." Littleton's shop is the company's second, after another location in Lakewood. Lube & Latte offers the full gamut of repair services, everything from oil changes and tire rotation to timing belts and full engine replacements. The shop also offers a full suite of services for hybrid and electric vehicles, and mechanics take pride in teaching customers how to maintain their cars. On the coffee side, Lube & Latte offers a menu including espresso, chai, tea, pastries, and smoothies – and customers don't need to have a car in the shop to stop in for a cup. Lube & Latte is at 5600 South Windermere Street. For more information, visit LubeAndLatte.com or call 720-440-9132.

Water 2 Wine

For those looking to expand their sommelier skills, look no further than Water 2 Wine. The "neighborhood winery" blends, oaks, and ferments dozens of varietals of wine on-site, starting with grapes sourced from vineyards worldwide. Guests can come in for a wine tasting, buy a bottle – or make their own batch of wine with a personalized label. Guests can pick their own grape must, pitch the yeast, and get the fermentation process started. The shop's wine-making team takes over the rest of the production, and in six to eight weeks, guests can come back to taste, fill, cork, and label their wine. Water 2 Wine's one-of-a-kind wines are low-sulfite, low-histamine, and without heavy preservatives – no wonder they have taken top honors in wine competitions around the country. The winery is available for private parties and team building activities. Water 2 Wine is located at 311 East County Line Road, Suite A-20. For more information, visit Water2Wine.com or call 720-489-9463.
